Mediation in the Caribbean: Untapped Potential for Commercial and Trade disputes?

Professor Suzanne Rab

Suzanne is accredited as a mediator by the Centre for Effective Dispute Resolution (CEDR), the Civil Mediation Council (CMC) and the International Mediation Institute (IMI). Suzanne's core area of practice is regulatory, EU and competition and trade law where she has represented businesses, public authorities and NGOs for over 20 years. She has particular expertise in the communications, energy, financial services, healthcare/ pharmaceuticals, TMT and other regulated sectors.

Session Overview

The benefits of ADR as a cost-effective, efficient and more flexible dispute resolution tool to litigation have long been accepted. While arbitration will be familiar to litigators, comparatively less attention has been given to mediation and still less on a regional basis.

With increasing interest in mediation techniques to resolve disputes against a backdrop of court backlogs, and online mediations being used to deal with the challenge of social distancing, this session will consider the status of mediation in the Caribbean.

Join Suzanne Rab for this one hour session where she will discuss:

- Mediation on the International and Regional Stage
- Mediation in the Caribbean: Updates, Trends and Future Potential
- Mediation in specific dispute contexts: Company and Commercial Trusts, Financial, Regulation, Trade and Investment
